Art Therapy - Promoting Healing and Creativity

Lurie Children's Hospital - Chicago, Illinois

Art therapy interventions offer a demonstrated way to support emotional well-being and strengthen mental health for patients navigating tough medical situations, psychological distress and anxiety around their diagnosis, treatment or ongoing hospital stays.

Lurie Children's strives to make art therapy accessible to children of all abilities by using adaptive tools for those with varying physical capabilities as well as those with safety concerns. They created 3D printed adaptive tools tailored to specific patient needs that our patients are able to keep for their continued use.

Music Therapy - The Restorative Power of Music

At Lurie Children's, music therapists provide music experiences that promote regulation, control and autonomy, while honoring individual dignity, identity and values. These experiences might include active music making, listening to favorite songs, songwriting/composition or developmental and sensory music-play, based on patients' preferences, abilities and areas of need.
